- 3.5.3 You agree and undertake to pay any taxes, duties, impositions, or charges payable to the relevant authorities in respect of your citizenship, nationality, residing or your giving of any Instructions from outside Australia and the execution of your Instructions. You agree that, when in doubt, you will consult or obtain advice on tax related matters and/or issues from professionals of the relevant jurisdiction(s) at your own costs.
- 3.5.4 You must advise us promptly if you (a) are a U.S. person, or (b) acquire or hold any Investment products beneficially owned by, or operate any Account for, a U.S. person or in violation of any Applicable Laws and Regulations. Where you become a U.S. Person, we reserve the right to suspend or terminate any or all Services provided to you under the Agreement with respect to any Investment product. We also reserve the right to suspend or terminate your Account. We are not liable for any losses, costs, fees, or expenses of any kind you may incur or suffer in connection with such suspension or termination. Furthermore, we reserve the right to make or handle any tax reporting in relation to such Investment product on your behalf.

3.6 Instructions

- 3.6.1 Webull shall be authorised but not bound to act on an Instruction given by you or the Authorised Person (if any) in relation to any Transaction (whether directly or through other dealer or otherwise). Webull may at any time and from time to time, at its absolute discretion, impose any limits including trading limits on any Account and you agree not to exceed such limits. If any of the said limits are or to be exceeded, Webull may decline such an Instruction and/or be entitled to close the open position of the Transaction(s) concerned. Webull may in its absolute discretion refuse to act on any of the Instructions received from you without giving any reason, including without limitation the following Instructions: (a) for a sell order without evidence of sufficient securities; or (b) for a buy order without evidence of sufficient funds or compliance with the margin requirements. Webull is not in any circumstances liable in any way for any loss of profit or gain, damage, liability or cost or expense suffered or incurred by you arising from or in connection with Webull's refusal to act on such Instruction or omitting to notify you of such refusal.

- 3.6.2 Subject to Applicable Laws and Regulations, Webull shall act as your agent and not as a principal in relation to any Transactions undertaken by Webull under these Terms except where Webull gives notice to you to the contrary.
- 3.6.3 You undertake not to give any Instructions for sale of Securities which you do not own (that is, involves short selling) and we shall treat all sale orders as long sale orders unless otherwise agreed between you and us. Notwithstanding the foregoing, where we consent and agree to your entering into such short selling activities, you may subscribe for short selling services with us, subject to the following:
- (a) without prejudice to any other provision in these Terms, you are required to comply with, and be solely responsible for complying with, any Applicable Laws and Regulations that apply to you in connection with such short selling activities, including without limitation any regulatory reporting obligations such as under section 1020B of the Corporations Act 2001;
 - (b) before or at the time of giving any Instructions relating to short selling orders: you are required to (i) inform Webull that the order is a short selling order; and (ii) where you own some but not the full quantity of the Securities to be sold, ensure that any 'partial' short sell order is split into separate orders (such that a particular order should either be a selling order or a short selling order), and inform Webull which order is a short selling order;
 - (c) in the event of an error in respect of information provided to Webull by you under sub-paragraph (b) above, you must promptly notify Webull (via such means as Webull may at its sole discretion prescribe), to correct erroneous short sell information that was marked at order entry;
 - (d) the market value of short Securities is treated as a debit item in your Margin Account; and
 - (e) any other condition that Webull may impose discretion (including but not limited to restrictions on which Securities may be shorted) at its absolute from time to time.
- 3.6.4 Because of physical restraints on any Exchange or the very rapid changes in the prices of securities that frequently take place, there may, on occasions, be a delay in making prices or in dealing. Webull may not always be able to trade at the prices or rates quoted at any specific time or 'at best' or 'at market'. Webull shall not be liable for any loss howsoever arising by reason of its failing, or being unable, to comply with the terms of any limit order undertaken on your behalf or under circumstances beyond Webull's control, including as contemplated in this clause. Where Webull is for any reason whatsoever unable to perform your order in full, it may in its discretion effect partial performance only. You shall in any event accept and be bound by the outcome when any request to execute orders is made.
- 3.6.5 Unless otherwise instructed by you (and subject to such Instruction being accepted by us), all Instructions are good for the day on which they were given. They will be automatically cancelled if not executed by the close of trading on the relevant Exchange or such other expiration date or time required by the relevant Exchange. Any Instructions received on a trading day after the close of trading on the relevant Exchange will be carried forward to the next trading day of that Exchange, and this clause will apply accordingly. We may execute the Instructions at any time prior to their automatic cancellation or receipt of cancellation Instructions, and you accept full responsibility (including without limitation, for any costs or expenses incurred, if any) for the Transactions executed.

- 3.6.6 All orders made by you shall be through such means and channels prescribed by Webull and subject to such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by Webull at the relevant time. Such means and channels may include orders being made orally either in person or by telephone, or in writing, delivered by post, by hand or transmitted through Electronic Media or Electronic Trading Services at your risk and subject always to the then current terms and conditions prescribed by Webull. We may act on such Instructions which Webull reasonably believes in coming from you or provided on your behalf (such as, but not limited to, Instructions referable to your Access Codes), without any duty to further verify the capacity of the person giving the Instruction. Webull shall not be responsible for the non-performance of its obligations hereunder by reason of any cause beyond Webull's control, including, without limitation, transmission or computer delays, system (software or hardware), server or connection failure, interruption, delay in transmission, computer virus or other malicious, destructive or corrupting code, agent program or macros, errors or omissions, strikes and similar industrial action or the failure of any dealer, Exchange or Clearing House to perform its obligations. You hereby confirm and agree that you shall be responsible to Webull for all engagements, indebtedness and any other obligations made or entered into in your name whether in writing or orally and howsoever communicated and purporting to be given as aforesaid.
- 3.6.7 You may request to cancel or amend your Instructions, but we may at our absolute discretion (such discretion not to be exercised in an unreasonable manner) refuse to accept any such request. Instructions may be cancelled or amended only before execution. Cancellation of market Instructions are rarely possible as they are subject to immediate execution. In the case of full or partial execution of your Instructions before cancellation has been accepted by us, you agree to accept full responsibility for the executed Transactions (and any costs and expenses related thereto) and we shall incur no liability in connection therewith. You also agree to accept full responsibility for any costs or expenses incurred as a result of any cancellation (whether or not the Instruction has been fully or partially executed).
- 3.6.8 You hereby acknowledge that we and our directors, employees and/or their associates may from time-to-time trade on our/their own accounts. Furthermore, you acknowledge and agree that subject to Applicable Laws and Regulations, we may, without informing you:
- (a) effect such Transactions;

- (b) subject to our "Instructions" part of this Agreement, we may as principal enter into Transactions with you, for our own Account and/or the Account of our related parties including but not limited to any of our Affiliates, employees, or directors;
- (c) effect Transactions in Securities where we have a position in the relevant Securities or are involved with those Securities as underwriter, sponsor or otherwise;
- (d) take a trading position opposite to yours, either for our own Account or our other clients;
- (e) match your orders with those of other clients of Webull;
- (f) combine your order with our orders or our other clients for execution;
- (g) contract or enter into any financial, commercial, advisory, or other transaction or arrangement with any person which may relate to any Investment (or any person which is the obligor in respect of any such Investment) which for the time being form part of your assets and to be interested in any such contract or transaction; and
- (h) have a relationship with companies or other entities who may have actual or potential conflict of interest with you, and neither we nor our related parties shall be obliged to account to you or any third party for any profits or benefits received in connection therewith. In the event of insufficient securities to satisfy orders so combined as mentioned in the above paragraph (f), Webull may in its absolute discretion allocate the Transactions between clients and us, having due regard to market practice and fairness to the clients concerned. You acknowledge and accept that such combination and/or allocation may on some occasions operate to your advantage and on other occasions to your disadvantage.

You agree that this clause contains only examples of situations in which a potential conflict of interest may arise and is not an exhaustive list of all such situations whereby conflict may arise.

You also agree that we may retain for our own absolute use and benefit any profit which we may derive from such dealings or in connection with such dealings.

3.6.9 All Instructions relating to purchase or sale of securities or otherwise given hereunder which may be executed on more than one Exchange may be executed on any Exchange Webull selects. Webull may also in its discretion direct the Instructions of you to other dealers for execution without giving any notification to you.

3.6.10 Without prejudice to any other provision in these Terms, where any Instruction is ambiguous or in conflict with any other Instruction, we shall be entitled, but not obliged, to rely and act on any such Instruction in accordance with any reasonable interpretation thereof which any of our directors, officer, employee, or agents believes in good faith to be the correct interpretation.

3.6.11 In acting on an Instruction, we shall be allowed such amount of time as may be reasonable having regard to our systems and operations and the other circumstances then prevailing and shall not be liable for any loss arising from any delay on our part in acting on such Instruction.

3.6.12 Subject to Applicable Laws and Regulations, we may in our absolute discretion determine the priority in the executions of the orders received from our clients, having due regard to the sequence in which such orders were received, and you shall not have any claim of priority to another client in relation to the execution of any orders received by us.

3.6.13 We may at any time, at our absolute discretion and without prior notice to you, suspend, prohibit, or restrict your ability to give Instructions or to substitute Securities in your Account(s).

3.6.14 Without prejudice to the generality of any other provision of the Agreement, we may act on an order in accordance with our Best Execution Policy of Webull as may be in effect from time to time and which can be accessed at <https://www.webull.com.au>.

3.6.15 In relation to any Over-The-Counter ("OTC") transactions, including without limitation trading of any new securities before their listing on an Exchange, entered or to be entered into by you, you acknowledge and agree that:

- (a) Webull is acting as your agent and does not guarantee the settlement of such OTC transactions;
- (b) your orders may be partially executed or not executed at all. Trades executed will be cancelled and void if the relevant Securities subsequently fail to list on an Exchange;
- (c) in the event that you, in selling any Securities, fail to deliver such Securities, Webull is entitled to purchase in the market (at the prevailing market price) the relevant Securities required for delivery in respect of such sale effected for you in order to complete the settlement of the relevant Transaction. You shall bear all losses and costs arising out of or in connection with such Transaction;
- (d) in the event that: (i) you buy Securities from a seller and such seller fails to deliver the relevant Securities; or(ii) the purchase of the relevant Securities cannot be effected for any other reason, the Client will not be entitled to obtain the relevant Securities at the matched price and shall only be entitled to receive the money paid for the purchase of the relevant Securities;
- (e) in the event that you, in buying any Securities fail to deposit the necessary settlement amount, Webull is entitled to sell any and all Securities or Collateral held in your Account and use the sale proceeds after deducting all costs in the settlement of the Transaction. However, if you are the seller under such Transaction and such Transaction cannot be settled for any reason, you shall only be entitled to the relevant Securities but not the sale proceeds of the relevant Securities; and
- (f) without prejudice to the above, you shall bear your own losses or expenses and shall be responsible to Webull for any losses and expenses resulting from your and/or your counterparty's settlement failures.

3.7 Recordings

You understand and agree that Webull may record, and keep records of, conversations with you whether conducted on the telephone or through any other media or otherwise by tape or electronic means for security, control, or record purposes. You agree that such records shall be binding and conclusive on you.

- (a) pay Webull cleared funds or deliver Securities to Webull in deliverable form; or
- (b) otherwise ensure that Webull has received such funds or Securities, by such time as Webull has notified (whether verbally or in writing) you in relation to the relevant Transaction.

- 3.9.2 Unless otherwise agreed between you and us, you agree that any interest accrued on any money in the Account shall belong to us absolutely.

- 3.9.4 Subject to Applicable Laws and Regulations and without prejudice to any of Webull's other rights, we may, in our absolute discretion, determine how we shall receive, keep, and administer money in your Account(s), and this includes without limitation doing any of the following without notice to you:
- (a) combine or consolidate any or all segregated accounts, of any nature whatsoever and either individually or jointly with others, maintained by Webull and/or any of Webull's group companies from time to time ("Webull Group") and we may transfer any sum of money held or received by Webull in Australia (including any interest derived from the holding of the money which does not belong to Webull) in one or more segregated account(s) on your behalf ("Monies") (including conversion between currencies) to and between such segregated account(s) to satisfy your obligations or liabilities to any member of Webull Group, whether such obligations and liabilities are actual, contingent, primary or collateral, secured or unsecured, or joint or several; and

On that all monies transferred into your trading account are for the sole purpose of participating in services and products we offer only. The firm is not a payments provider platform. No third party deposits are permitted. In addition, we do not permit cash accounts to carry a debit balance. As such, you agree, we may in certain circumstances have to sell your holdings in order to meet any shortfalls that may arise in your account for trading.

3.9.6 As a funds up front model Webull provides its clients with an auto deposit service whereby clients can make deposits into their Webull account from funds from their designated bank account at set intervals with set frequencies that suits via an external party Webull uses namely PayTo which is a regulated service offered by banks, financial institutions, and payment service providers in Australia. No third-party deposits are permitted by using this service. By setting the auto deposit function for your account you acknowledge that Webull reserves the right to present the auto deposit instructions and complete the transaction up to three business days. If a PayTo payment fails due to insufficient funds, an unqualified account, or any other reason, Webull will attempt to debit your bank account again on the next business day. After three consecutive failed attempts, we will cancel the auto-deposit task for this interval. You can cancel the auto deposit instruction at any time, however by providing auto invest instructions you are acknowledging that, despite our best endeavours to present an auto deposit cancellation the transaction may still occur. Should this occur, you will be able to request that the transaction be dishonoured from your designated bank account or, if the funds are cleared in your Webull account, make a withdrawal request via your trading account on the App. You agree that Webull is not liable for any cost charged by your designated bank or by any other party as a result of a transaction that occurs after an auto deposit instruction.

- 3.6 There may be a delay between the time that you provide us with a Loan Request and the completion of any other step in connection with the requested Loan. Unless we have acted fraudulently or with gross negligence, we are not in any way liable to you for any movement in the price or value of any Approved Securities that may occur during the period of any such delay.
- 3.7 The Margin Facility is repayable on demand and Webull may, in its absolute discretion, vary the terms in this Agreement or terminate the Margin Facility at any time it deems suitable. Webull is not obliged in any way to provide financial accommodation to you.

4. Interest, fees, and charges

- 4.1 You agree we may debit interest, fees, and charges payable in relation to the Margin Facility to your Account.
- 4.2 You agree to pay interest at an annual rate we determine, and that applies at the date from when your Loan Request is fully approved by us. Our interest rates, and details of our fees and charges, are published on our website at www.webull.com.au/pricing
- 4.3 Interest:
- (a) accrues daily on any Loan advanced to you, commencing from (and including) the first day that the Loan proceeds are made available to you; and

(b) is payable monthly in arrears as set out in your monthly statement.

- 4.4 We may also charge Default Interest on any unpaid interest, fees, charges, or other amounts you owe us in connection with any Margin Loan, commencing from (and including) the date any such amount becomes payable.
- 4.5 Our debiting an amount to your Individual or Joint Account under these Margin Terms or as otherwise provided for in these terms, may result in a Margin Call. Any such event will not affect our rights under these terms.
- 4.6 We will hold any credit balances on your Individual or Joint Account in cash unless you transfer them to another account. Where we earn interest on any credit balance that we hold in cash, we will not pay interest on those amounts to you.
- 4.7 We may vary interest rates, fees, and charges from time to time without giving you any notice.
- 4.8 You must pay or reimburse us, by a date that we specify, any and all costs and expenses we may incur in connection with the enforcement or preservation of any right we have under these terms.

- 5.1 You must pay to us all amounts due in connection with any Margin Loan in full, and in cleared and immediately available funds. Unless we specify otherwise, any amount payable to us in connection with any Loan must be paid in relevant currencies within your account.
- 5.2 To the extent permitted by law, all payments must be free of any withholding or deduction for taxes. If any law requires you to make any deduction, you agree to increase the amount you pay us so that we receive the same amount we would have received had no such deduction been made.
- 5.3 Payments must be made by 5pm local Sydney time on the day the payment is due. If the due date falls on a day that is not a Business Day, the payment must be made on the previous Business Day.

 - (c) any unpaid interest;
 - (d) any other costs, fees, or charges; and
 - (e) the principal outstanding under the Loan.

6. Loan Repayment

- 6.1 You must repay to us the amount of the Secured Obligations relating to any Margin Loan:
- (a) where we determine an Event of Default has occurred, immediately on demand by us;
 - (b) if we or you exercise any right to terminate a Margin Loan under the Margin Facility in accordance with these terms, on a date the relevant party nominates;
 - (c) if at any time we ask you to repay the Secured Obligations to us, by giving you a margin call.
- 6.2 Subject to your obligations under these terms:
- (a) you may choose to repay all or any portion of the Secured Obligations at any time;
 - (b) amounts you repay will be available for re-drawing during the term of the Margin Loan.
- 6.3 If you repay more than the Secured Obligations and this results in a credit balance, we are not required to pay any interest on that credit balance.

7. Short Selling

- 7.1 Without prejudice to the generality of any other provision relating to short selling under these terms, you acknowledge that short sales may only be executed as part of the Standard Margin Facility in a Webull Account subject to our margin requirements.
- 7.2 Prior to execution of a short sale, Webull shall, as agent, instruct Webull's clearing firm to borrow the specified equity on your behalf. Webull's clearing firm must successfully borrow the specified equity in order to deliver the equity to the purchaser. You acknowledge that you are acting for your own account and will be liable as principal in respect of all transactions entered into hereunder.
- 7.3 If the specified equity has been borrowed on your behalf and the lending firm subsequently issues a recall notice, Webull's clearing firm shall attempt to re-borrow the specified equity on your behalf. In the event the specified equity cannot be re-borrowed, you acknowledge that Webull may, without notice to you, cover your short position by purchasing stock in the open market at the current market price. You shall then be held liable for all related costs incurred by Webull.

- 7.4 Short selling is permitted only within US stocks per our Accepted US Securities List where certain conditions apply (the application must have an approved Margin Account).
- 7.5 Webull does not transfer the title and interest in the borrowed specified equity to you.
- 7.6 You acknowledge that you shall provide collateral of no less than fifty percent of the value of the specified equity borrowed by you, unless otherwise stated.

- 7.8 You shall pay Webull a borrowing fee as determined and communicated to you by Webull. The calculation procedure will be updated on Webull website from time to time.
- 7.9 The borrowing arrangement shall be deemed terminated under the following circumstances:
- (a) on the settlement date of the purchase of the relevant equity on the exchange that it is listed on for the redelivery of the borrowed equity by you or upon the demand return of the borrowed equity by Webull by giving notice to you; or
 - (b) the occurrence of an event of default.
- 7.10 Webull may in its sole and absolute discretion determine the respective market value of the specified equity borrowed and the collateral provided for thereunder on a daily marked-to-market basis. Margins shall be calculated according to such calculation formula as determined and notified by Webull from time to time.

8. Margin Calls

- 8.1 We will take reasonable steps to notify you via email, text message or a telephone call if and when your Current LVR exceeds the Margin Call LVR. Your net account value is lower than Maintenance Margin requirement but before it reaches Forced Liquidation requirement.
- 8.2 You agree to manage any Loan so as to avoid a Margin Call. However, we may make a Margin Call if, at the relevant time, the Current LVR or the amount of the Secured Obligations is equal to or greater than the Margin Call LVR. Your net account value is lower than Maintenance Margin requirement. This may occur because of:

- (a) changes in the value of the Approved Securities, including changes to their market value, or where we may change the Loan to Value Ratio of any of the Approved Securities;
 - (b) us removing any Approved Security from the Approved Securities List;
 - (c) an change in the Base LVR, Initial Margin Ratio, Maintenance Margin Ratio, Forced Liquidation Ratio or Secured Obligations, including where this is a result of any failure to make payments required under this Client Agreement; or
 - (d) any combination of the above.
- 8.3 If we make a Margin Call, we will take reasonable steps to notify you and ask you to take any of the following steps within 48 hours (or any combination of them):
- (a) repay some or all of the amount of the Secured Obligations;
 - (b) provide us with a Charge over additional Approved Securities;
 - (c) sell some or all of the Approved Securities you hold;
 - (d) deposit cash into your Margin Loan Account; or
 - (e) do any other thing we, acting reasonably, consider necessary.
- 8.4 If we make a Forced Liquidation Call this is because your account value is less than the Forced Liquidation requirement and you will be required to take action on this call within 60 minutes. Failure to do so Webull will act on your behalf to sell some of your portfolio to fulfil the margin requirements.
- 8.5 You appoint us, our authorised employees, officers, and agents to act on your behalf and authorise us to take any step, provided we act reasonably, that we determine should be taken by you in order to satisfy a Margin Call
- 8.6 If we determine that you have not satisfied a Margin Call, or you cannot meet our Forced Liquidation requirement, or we have not been able to contact you to notify you of a Margin Call after taking reasonable steps to do so, you agree and acknowledge that we may, acting as your attorney and without further notice to you, sell or dispose of some or all of the Approved Securities over which you have provided us with a Charge, and apply the proceeds to the reduction of the Secured Obligations
- 8.7 In the event that we enforce our rights under these terms and the proceeds from the sale or disposal of any Approved Securities are insufficient to repay the amount of the Secured Obligations, you must immediately repay to us the portion of the Secured Obligations that remains outstanding.
- 8.8 You must ensure you provide us with accurate, complete, and current contact details that we can use to notify you of a Margin Call. You must provide these contact details through our Digital Application and immediately notify us of any changes to those details. You must also ensure that you are at all times available and able to receive and act upon any such notification. We may notify you of a Margin Call using any method we deem to be reasonable, including email, text message or telephone (or any combination of these).

- 8.9 You agree that we are not required to take any step to limit or stop your loss during the period any Loan is subject to a Margin Call.
- 8.10 It is not a waiver of any of our rights that we may not exercise any right under these terms (or any other provision of these terms despite being entitled to do so, or if we delay in exercising any such right).

- 9.2 We may terminate any Loan, the Margin Facility or both at any time.

- 11.4 If the whole or any part of a provision of these terms is void, unenforceable or illegal, it is severed, and the remainder of these terms will continue to have full force and effect. This clause will have no effect if a severance of a void, unenforceable or illegal provision would alter the fundamental nature of these terms.

12. Collateral

- 12.1 You as beneficial owner of the Collateral, hereby charge in favour of Webull in respect of all the Secured Obligations by way of first fixed charge all your right, title, benefits and interests in and to the Collateral including any additional or substituted collateral and all dividends, interest paid or payable, rights, interests, money or other properties accruing or offering at any time by way of redemption, bonus, preference, options or otherwise on or in respect of the Collateral as continuing security for the payment and discharge of the Secured Obligations.

 - (a) you do not provide us with the information or documents requested in a timely manner or if any information or documents provided are not up-to-date, accurate or complete such that we are unable to ensure its ongoing compliance or adherence with the requirements under FATCA;
 - (b) your FATCA status is identified as non-participating foreign financial institutions;
 - (c) there is no reliable evidence to treat you as exempted from withholding requirement under FATCA or other relevant regulations;
 - (d) the withholding is required by competent regulatory or government authorities in the relevant jurisdiction; or
 - (e) the withholding is otherwise necessary or appropriate for the compliance of the requirements under FATCA and other Applicable Laws and Regulations.

5. Indemnification

- 5.1. You hereby agree to hold us and our directors, officers, employees and agents (the “Indemnified Persons”) indemnified against all losses, liabilities, costs, claims, actions, demands or expenses (including but not limited to, all reasonable costs, charges and expenses incurred in disputing or defending any of the foregoing) which the indemnified Persons may incur or which may be made against the Indemnified Persons arising out of, or in relation to or in connection with:
- (a) any breach or alleged breach of the terms and conditions hereunder whether by act or omission of you; and
 - (b) any non-compliance of FATCA, CRS or any other Applicable Laws and Regulations in relation to you and/or your Account(s), except where such loss or damages arise from willful default, fraud, or negligence of the Indemnified Persons.
- 5.2. You undertake to assist us in any proceeding or investigation arising in any matter out of or in connection with the compliance with the requirements under FATCA, CRS and other Applicable Laws and Regulations. - 5.4. You shall continue to be bound by the provisions of this clause despite of ceasing to be Account(s) holder or the termination of any Account(s).

Schedule E – Retail Client Terms

1. Application of the Retail Client Terms

Without prejudice to the generality of the other provisions in this Client Agreement, these Retail Client Terms set out additional terms governing the provision of any Account(s) or Service(s) provided by us to you where you are a Retail Client, and forms part of this Client Agreement. In the event of any conflict or inconsistency between these Retail Client Terms and the rest of this Client Agreement, such conflicting or inconsistent provisions of this Client Agreement shall be deemed to have been varied to give effect to the provisions of these Retail Client Terms insofar as the conflicting or inconsistent provision relates directly to the subject matter hereof but not otherwise.

2. Definitions and Interpretation

2.1. For the purposes of these Retail Client Terms:

- (a) “Retail Client” means a person other than a “Professional Investor”, a “wholesale client”, as defined in s761G(4) of the Corporations Act 2001.
- (b) “Risk Disclosure Statement” means the statement(s) relating to the risks of certain transactions and/or products and/or regulatory disclosures (as may be amended, supplemented, or replaced from time to time), and any other document which amends, supplements, or replaces the same.

2.2. In these Retail Client Terms, wherever the terms “Asset” and “Money” are used, they to be construed respectively as any asset or money received or held by Webull in custody on behalf of you (as a Retail Client).

3. Customer Assessment

3.1. You acknowledge that your application to open an Account, access any Service(s) or undertake any Transaction(s) may be subject to Webull having established that you have the requisite knowledge and competence under such Applicable Laws and Regulations.

3.2. If you are assessed or deemed by Webull not to possess the requisite knowledge and competence, or if you fail or refuse to provide all relevant information and documents to Webull, Webull may at its absolute discretion refuse to permit you to open an Account, access any Service(s) or enter into any Transaction(s), without Webull incurring any liability whatsoever to you for such refusal.

3.3. To the extent permitted under Applicable Laws and Regulations, Webull does not undertake any duty or obligation to ensure that any Transaction or Securities are suitable or recommended for you, and Webull shall not be regarded as making any recommendation or suitability representation to you by reason only that Webull permitted you to open an Account, access any Service(s) or enter into any Transaction(s).

4. Retail Client Money and Assets

4.1. Any Asset and Money deposited by you with us will be held by us in a custody account ("Custody Account") held on trust and maintained by us with a relevant regulated ADI.

4.2. Subject to Applicable Laws and Regulations, you acknowledge and agree that:

- (a) the Custody Account may be maintained with such financial institution as may be permitted under the ASIC Client Money Reporting Rules including amongst others a licensed bank or merchant bank under the Banking Act of Australia and/or regulated by the APRA;
- (b) your Money and Assets may be withdrawn from the Custody Account and deposited with a Clearing House, or a broker which is a member of a clearing facility or market for any of the following purposes:
 - (i) for the purpose of entering into, facilitating the continued holding of a position in, or facilitating a transaction in, any capital markets products on your behalf on the relevant market;
 - (ii) for the purpose of the clearing or settlement of any capital markets products on the relevant clearing facility for you; or
 - (iii) for any other purpose specified under the business rules and practices of such Clearing House, market or clearing facility.
- (c) your Money and Assets may be commingled with the money and assets of our other customers. We shall be entitled at our absolute discretion to make such arrangements as we deem fit for the purposes of keeping the Assets and Money in safe custody. You acknowledge and agree that there are risks associated with the fact that your Assets and Money may be commingled in this manner, and that the risks of such commingling include:
 - (i) No right to any specific asset: Assets held by us through any custodian, in or outside Australia, shall be treated as fungible with all other Assets of the same issue (including Assets which are to be treated or deemed to be treated as the same or equivalent to the same issue) which means, subject to this Client Agreement and any other agreement between you and us, that you shall have no right to any specific Asset but shall instead be entitled to transfer, deliver or repossess from us an amount of Asset of any issue that is equivalent to the amount of such Asset credited to your Custody Account, without regard to the certificate numbers or other identifiers, so long as the Assets returned are of the same class, denomination and nominal amount and rank pari passu with those accepted, subject always to any capital reorganisation or share exchange or other relevant corporate event which may have occurred. This shall not apply to Assets registered in

- your name, or to any Asset which for other reasons must be kept separately in safe custody. We may, where permitted under Applicable Laws and Regulations, commingle the Asset so deposited by you with other assets owned by other parties.
- (ii) Distributions pro rata: Your Assets may be pooled with assets belonging to our other customers, such that they may not be separately identifiable or ascertainable, by means of separate certificates or physical documents or equivalent electronic records or identifiers, as belonging to or attributable specifically to the Retail Clients. In this event:
 - (A) any distribution of entitlements to any benefits or entitlements arising as a result of corporate action will be allocated pro rata provided that (1) fractions of entitlements that arise as a result of this process will be rounded down to the nearest whole unit or share and (2) we shall be entitled to retain or deal with the accumulated amount of any undistributed entitlements arising as a result of this process for our own accounts and benefit, provided that we may, in our absolute discretion, choose to distribute all or any part of such undistributed entitlements as amongst one or more of its customers, including you, as we deem fit;
 - (B) where there is an allocation or Assets issue with rights weighted towards any set of investors, your allocation may be less or more than it otherwise would have been; and
 - (C) we will maintain a record of the amount of your interest in the Assets.
 - (iii) Corporate Events: A corporate event which results in a reduction of the Assets would result in a pro rata reduction of the Assets, and where there are fractional reductions, this could result in a reduction that may be less or more than it otherwise would have been.
 - (iv) Name under which Assets are registered: Where the Assets in the Custody Account are registered in your name, you retain a specific ownership interest in the Assets. Where the Assets in the Custody Account are registered in our name or the name of a custodian (as the case may be), we or such custodian (as the case may be) hold legal title to the Assets while you hold beneficial title to the Assets. You acknowledge that commingling distinguishes between our own assets and the assets held by you and our other customers in the same Custody Account. Consequently, there will be a mutualisation of losses and a pooling of risk between the customers whose assets are commingled in the Custody Account, due to fluctuations in the value of the assets allocable to our other customers. In the event of any loss due to fraud, expropriation and unauthorised or improper dealings resulting in there being insufficient assets of a particular issue, it is possible depending on the circumstances resulting in there being such insufficiency that certain customers (including you) may suffer losses of all, or in a greater proportion than, other customers (including you).

- (v) Allocation of shortfall: where your Money is deposited in a Custody Account and commingled with the monies of our other customers, although we will maintain records of the amount of Money you have deposited with us, your Money will not be separately identifiable from those of our other customers. In the event of a shortfall, there is a risk that the shortfall will be shared among our customers (including you) pro rata.
 - (d) your right to recourse against the Money and Assets in the event of the custodian's insolvency would depend on whether the Money and Assets would be available to the general body of creditors of the custodian or for general distribution. This would also depend on the laws of the jurisdiction applicable to custodian. Similarly, where your Money or Assets are deposited by us with a Clearing House, or a broker which is a member of a clearing facility or market, and such Clearing House or broker becomes insolvent, there is a risk that some or all of your Money and Assets may not be recovered.
 - (e) for the purpose of depositing Money and/or Assets denominated in a foreign currency, in a Custody Account, we may maintain the Custody Account with a custodian outside Australia. In the event that we do so, you acknowledge and agree that the laws and practices relating to custody in the jurisdiction under which the custodian is licensed, registered, or authorised may be different from the laws and practices in Australia relating to custody accounts. Further, you acknowledge and are aware that any such differences may affect your ability to recover the Money and/or Assets held by us with such custodian.
- 4.3. Mortgage etc. of Assets: You acknowledge and agree that we may, subject to Applicable Laws and Regulations, mortgage, charge, pledge or hypothecate your Assets, but only for a sum not exceeding any amount owed by you to us under this Client Agreement or otherwise. You acknowledge and agree that there are certain risks to us doing so, including that the title and interest in such Assets may be transferred to Webull or other third parties.
- 4.4. Retail Client's responsibility:
- (a) You represent and warrant that you have read and fully understood the relevant risk disclosures provided to you (including but not limited to the Risk Disclosure Statement in Part IV of this Client Agreement), this Client Agreement and any other agreement between you and us, the term sheets or any other documents pertaining to each Transaction(s), the nature of the Transaction(s) and the terms and conditions governing the Transaction.

- (b) You acknowledge that in entering into any Transaction, you have obtained all relevant terms of the Transaction and have made your own independent assessment of the Transaction on your own investment parameters, knowledge, experience, financing risk capacity and ability to monitor the Transaction, based on such independent financial, tax, legal or other advice as you consider appropriate and not upon any view or upon any representations (whether written or oral) expressed by us or any of our officers, employees, nominees or agents.
- (c) You further acknowledge that you have the knowledge to independently appraise and understand, are familiar with and are fully aware of the financial and legal terms and conditions and the risks related to the Transaction(s), and are willing to take such risks and economic consequences, and are capable of bearing a full loss of the amounts invested as a result of or in connection with any Transaction entered into and any additional loss over and above the initial amounts invested.
- (d) You agree that the Risk Disclosure Statement may not disclose all the risks involved in entering into this Client Agreement and/or any other agreement between you and us and/or any specific Transaction contemplated thereunder. The Risk Disclosure Statement is not meant to be a substitute for your responsibility to ensure that you are reliably and adequately informed in relation to any Transaction contemplated.

Schedule F – Webull Financial LLC Disclosure – Fractional Share Trading

This disclosure contains details of risks and additional information related to fractional share trading from our related affiliate Webull Financial LLC.

Webull Financial LLC is pleased to offer fractional share trading, allowing you to invest in portions of whole shares of stocks and exchange-traded funds ('ETF's). While fractional trading provides opportunities for portfolio diversification and investment in higher-priced securities with smaller amounts of capital, it is important to understand the unique characteristics and risks associated with this type of investing.

1. What is Fractional Share Trading?

Fractional share trading enables you to buy and sell less than a full share of a stock or ETF. Instead of purchasing whole shares, you can invest a specific dollar amount (a "notional amount order"), and we will purchase the corresponding fraction of a share on your behalf. For example:

- if a share of a company is trading at $1,000, you could invest $100 and own 0.10 (or 10%) of a share. Webull also accepts orders specifying fractional share quantities directly.
- If a share of a company is trading at $1,000, you could invest $1,500 and own 1.5 shares.

2. Risks and Considerations of Fractional Share Trading

Liquidity: Fractional shares are not traded on US national stock exchanges. The market for fractional shares is maintained by Webull in conjunction with our liquidity provider, Citadel Securities. We commit to buying your fractional shares at the prevailing National Best Bid and Offer ('NBBO') price for a whole share of the security, adjusted for the appropriate fraction. However, there may be circumstances where it may take longer to execute your fractional share order. In extreme circumstances, such as but not limited to, market disruptions or widespread system outages, we cannot guarantee the ability to execute such orders in a timely manner or, in extreme cases, at all.

Pricing: We execute fractional share trades based on the prevailing NBBO for whole shares, adjusted proportionally for the fractional quantity. While we strive to provide fair and competitive pricing, the price you receive for a fractional share may differ slightly from the price of a whole share traded on an exchange.

Order Execution: Fractional share orders are aggregated and executed by Webull and our liquidity providers. There is the potential that the executed price could vary slightly from the market price at the time your order was placed. Order execution could be delayed in instances of market volatility.

Voting Rights: Fractional shares typically do not carry voting rights. Since you own a fraction of a share, you are not entitled to vote a full share's worth of votes at shareholder meetings. We will not aggregate client fractional shares for purposes of proxy voting.

Transferability: Fractional shares are generally not transferable to other broker dealers. If you decide to transfer your account to another firm, your fractional share positions will need to be liquidated and the proceeds transferred.

Dividends: You may receive dividends in proportion to your fractional ownership. For example, if you own 0.5 shares and the dividend is $1 per share, you will receive $0.50. In some cases, depending on the amount, the dividend amount may be too small to automatically reinvest.

Corporate Actions: Fractional shares will generally be treated in the same proportion to full shares for corporate actions such as stock splits, reverse stock splits, mergers, or spin-offs. Cash-in-lieu may be provided for resulting fractional shares that are not able to be traded.

Margin: Fractional shares may or may not be eligible for margin, depending on the policies of Webull and the specific security. Please refer to your account agreement for details on margin eligibility.

Tax Implications: The tax treatment of fractional shares is generally the same as whole shares. However, we recommend consulting with a tax advisor for specific guidance related to your individual circumstances.

Program Changes and Suspension: Webull and Citadel Securities reserve the right to modify or terminate the fractional share trading program, including supported symbols, order characteristics, and order handling procedures, at any time and for any reason. This includes the right to suspend order acceptance if we are unable or unwilling to interact with fractional share or notional amount orders.

Webull may, in its sole discretion, and without prior notice to you, make changes to the fractional share trading program. Webull may change, add, or remove liquidity providers, including Citadel Securities, at its sole discretion. Any changes to the terms of the program will become effective immediately when they are posted to the Webull website or mobile application. Webull will generally make reasonable efforts to provide prior notice to affected clients of any changes to the program but is not obligated to do so. It is your sole responsibility to monitor the terms of the program and review any changes.

Eligibility: Webull partners with Citadel Securities to provide liquidity and facilitate the execution of fractional share trades. Citadel Securities acts as a principal in these transactions, meaning they buy and sell shares from their own inventory.

While Citadel Securities provides a list of eligible securities, Webull may maintain a more restrictive list. This means that not all securities available for fractional trading through Citadel Securities may be available through our platform. Determination of the availability of securities for fractional trading based on various factors, including but not limited to, liquidity, volatility, and client demand.

2. Orders for Fractional Shares

- 2.1. In respect of certain shares in certain markets, Webull may at its absolute discretion, accept and execute orders for Transactions to buy or sell a fraction of such shares. This may be subject to such additional conditions and restrictions as Webull may from time to time impose, including but not limited to in respect of order type.
- 2.2. Where you place an order for a quantity of shares that includes at least one whole share and a fractional share, or where you place an order for shares where the amount of your order (denominated in the relevant fiat currency) results in the order comprising at least one whole share and a fractional share, you will be deemed to have placed: (i) an order for the whole share(s); and (ii) a separate order for the fractional shares. You agree and acknowledge that the two orders may be executed separately (at a different time and at different prices) or one may be executed while the other is not.

3. Holding of Fractional Shares

- 3.1. All holdings of fractional shares are rounded to the fifth (5th) decimal place, the value of fractional shares to the nearest cent, and any dividends on fractional shares to the nearest cent. You understand and agree that this may affect, among other things, your ability to be credited for dividends and stock splits.
- 3.2. You agree and acknowledge that any fractional shares that are purchased through Webull will be held by us in your Account as custodian in accordance with these Terms.
- 3.3. You will be entitled to receive dividends in relation to any shares held in your Account with us. - 3.4. You may not withdraw or transfer your holdings of fractional shares. In the event that you wish to sell your holdings of fractional shares, such sale must be made through Webull in accordance with the terms of this Client Agreement.

The provisions in these Additional Terms for Options Trading govern the provision by Webull to you in relation to the execution of Transactions in option contracts.

2. Definitions

“Options Clearing Corporation” or “OCC” shall mean the entity which is responsible for all operations and oversight over activities related to options trading in the USA.

3. General

- 3.1. If at any time you enter into any Transaction for the purchase or resale of an option contract, you hereby agree to read, understand, familiarise yourself with, and abide by, Applicable Laws and Regulations (including but not limited to those of the OCC). Without prejudice to the generality of this clause or any other provision of these Terms, you shall not, acting alone or in concert with others, exceed the position and/or exercise limits that may be imposed by any relevant Exchange, market, Clearing House or regulatory authority.
- 3.2. You understand that you may not receive actual notice of exercise of an option contract until the week following exercise of the same.
- 3.3. You shall bear full responsibility for taking action to exercise or sell valuable options; however, in the absence of you notifying Webull (through such means and channels as may be prescribed by Webull from time to time) to exercise an option contract within the prescribed time, you consent and understand that out-of-the-money options contracts will lose all value and the executing broker or clearing firm (as may be acting on behalf of Webull) may exercise in-the-money option contracts on your behalf (an “expiration Transaction”) but is under no obligation to do so, and you will hold Webull harmless for any loss that may result at that time or any time hereafter in connection with the failure to exercise or sell any option contract.
- 3.4. In the event of such exercise, the Transaction shall be placed in your Account. In the event that the commissions charged for such an expiration Transaction exceeds the proceeds to be realised, you agree and hereby relinquish your ownership in said option contract to the clearing firm and the clearing firm may exercise the option for its own account. You acknowledge the clearing firm may utilise a random method of allocation for all option(s) assignments received and exercise assignment notices for options contracts are allocated among all customers' short positions within that series.

- 3.5. You acknowledge and accept that should Webull at its absolute discretion, deem it necessary for its protection for any reason, or in the event of your death, we may buy, sell, or short any part or all of the underlying shares represented by options endorsed by the relevant clearing firm for your Account. Any and all expenses incurred by Webull or the clearing firm in connection with such transactions shall be reimbursed by you to Webull and the clearing firm. You understand and acknowledge that when Transactions are traded in more than one marketplace, the clearing firm or the executing broker may use its discretion in selecting the market in which to enter your order unless you specifically instruct otherwise. Without prejudice to the conditions contained in these Terms all monies, Securities, or other property which Webull or the clearing firm may hold in any of your Accounts shall be held subject to a general lien for the discharge of your obligations to Webull and/or the clearing firm under these Terms or otherwise.
- 3.6. You agree that in connection with any uncovered option(s) for your Account, you will not sell, during the lifetime of such options, the underlying Securities collateralising such options, any underlying cash or Securities which may accrue on the underlying covered Securities until such options are closed, exercised, or expired or the undersigned has met the Collateral requirements established by Webull and/ or the clearing firm for carrying uncovered options. You also agree that Webull and/or the clearing firm, in its/their respective absolute discretion, may refuse any order to sell such underlying Securities received from you or by means of a "give-up" basis through another firm unless, prior to such sale, you have met the Collateral requirements established by Webull and/or the clearing firm for carrying uncovered options. Webull has the right in its discretion, to permit you to apply the proceeds of such sale to such Collateral requirements.
- 3.7. You are aware of the high degree of risk involved in option transactions and have given Webull, in strict confidence, information to demonstrate that this Account and the trading anticipated therewith is not unsuitable for you in light of your investment objectives, financial situation and needs, experience, and knowledge. Notwithstanding that Webull does not provide financial advisory services to you, you agree to advise Webull of any changes in your investment objectives, financial situation or other circumstances that may materially affect your suitability of trading in option transactions as Webull may require such information to take steps to protect its own position and to otherwise comply with Applicable Laws and Regulations.
- 3.8. You must acknowledge, prior to the entering of your first trade in equity options, to Webull that you have in fact read and fully understand the most up to date OCC disclosure document Characteristics and Risks of Standardized Options (the "OCC Document") located at www.webull.com.au. If you do not understand or need clarification on any term, condition, or risk you must do so before acknowledging to Webull that you have read the OCC Document.

- 3.9. You understand that the OCC assigns exercises to clearing firms and you acknowledge that, upon assignment, you shall be required: (i) in the case of an equity option, to deliver or accept the required number of shares of the underlying security, or (ii) in the case of an equity index option, to pay or receive the settlement price, in cash. You understand that you may not receive notice of an assignment from Webull and/or the clearing firm until one or more days following the date of the initial assignment by OCC to the clearing firm and that the lack of such notice creates a special risk for uncovered writers of physical delivery call stock options. You acknowledge that you have read and understand this risk as described in the OCC Document.

4. Equity Options

When you trade equity options, you agree and acknowledge that:

- (a) trading equity options is highly speculative and contains a high degree of risk;
- (b) you must be financially capable of undertaking the risks associated with the trading of equity options and must be able to endure any losses incurred by trading such products, including the total loss of premiums paid by you for long put and long call option positions; and the margin requirements associated with short put and short call option positions; and transaction costs;
- (c) option contracts are traded for a specific period of time;
- (d) volatility, liquidity, and system failures may potentially make execution in a particular market extremely difficult;
- (e) Webull and/or the clearing firm may at their discretion liquidate any of your positions if Account equity is not sufficient to meet margin requirements under Applicable Laws and Regulations; terminate or suspend your trading privileges if your losses equal or exceed the amount of speculative capital specified in your Account application or if for any other reason Webull has otherwise assessed that the Account poses undue risk; the clearing firm may automatically exercise any put or call option that is in-the-money by .01 or more at expiration but is under no obligation to do so;
- (f) purchases of equity option contracts must be paid for in full at the time of purchase, meaning, equity option contracts may not be purchased on margin; you fully understand the relevant margin requirements for the sale of call and put options and the risks involved with such trading;
- (g) your failure to execute a closing transaction or your failure to provide exercise Instructions through such means and channels prescribed by Webull within the prescribed time may result in the option expiring worthless, regardless of the value of the equity option contract at expiration;
- (h) you must monitor your positions at all times and when you wish to exercise

a particular option contract you must notify Webull through such means and channels as may be prescribed by Webull from time to time within the prescribed time. Additionally, if you wish to exercise an option contract that will not be automatically exercised then you must send in your Instructions through such means and channels prescribed by Webull within the prescribed time. We reserve the right to refuse to exercise any option contract that may cause undue risk to us, the executing broker, or the clearing firm;

- (i) in the event you do not have ample equity, before the expiration of an equity option contract, to meet the initial margin requirements prescribed for the purchase or sale of the underlying security, Webull and/or the executing broker may in its discretion close out your option positions that pose risk if exercised or assigned or liquidate the underlying security position which results from the exercise of the option contract; neither Webull, the executing broker, nor the clearing firm is under any obligation to purchase or sell the underlying security on your behalf; and
- (j) in the event there is an exercise of a long put contract that results in the short sale of the underlying equity, you are responsible for the order at the time the order is placed; you acknowledge that short sales may only be executed in a Margin Account subject to margin requirements; prior to execution of a short sale Webull's clearing firm must be able to borrow the specified equity on your behalf in order to deliver the equity to the purchaser; if the equity has been borrowed on your behalf and the lending firm subsequently issues a recall notice to the clearing firm, then Webull's clearing firm will attempt to re-borrow the equity on your behalf. However, if in the event the equity cannot be re-borrowed you acknowledge that Webull may, without notice to you, cover your short position by purchasing stock in the open market at the current market price. You shall then be held liable for all related costs incurred by Webull.

- 9.2. The Client understands that if Webull considers that the Client does not for whatever reason have sufficient China Connect Securities in the Account to settle a sell order, Webull may in its absolute discretion:
 - (a) reject the Client's sell order; or
 - (b) perform any other act which Webull considers necessary or desirable to comply with pre-trade checking and/or relevant China Connect Laws or China Connect Rules.

- 11.4. In case of contingency including, without limitation, a failure of communication between the Exchanges in Hong Kong and in Mainland China, or the imposition of a SSE Circuit Breaker or a SZSE Circuit Breaker, Webull shall not be made responsible for any failure to execute any order cancellation requests and as a result the Client shall still bear the settlement obligations if the orders are matched and executed.
- 11.5. Notwithstanding any other provisions in this China Connect Terms, where Webull determines that there is insufficient liquidity in Renminbi to settle any buy orders, Webull may, in its sole and absolute discretion, reject such buy order.

- 14.2. In addition and without prejudice to any other right or remedy which Webull may have, Webull shall be entitled in its absolute discretion, without further notice or demand, forthwith, to satisfy any obligation or potential obligation of Webull or the Client to pay or account for any amounts in respect of any taxes by selling, realizing or otherwise dealing with, in such manner as Webull in its absolute discretion may determine, all or part of any property held by Webull for any purpose in any of the Client's account(s) held with Webull, and to apply the proceeds in reduction of all or part of the Client's liability to Webull. 16. Compliance

- 16.1. Should the Client at any time become aware of any such breach, non-compliance, or contravention of any such applicable laws, the Client shall forthwith notify Webull of such breach, non-compliance, or contravention.

5. Part IV – Risk Disclosure Statement

1. Risk of Securities Trading

1.1 Price Fluctuation

The prices of securities fluctuate, sometimes rapidly and significantly. The price of a security may move up or down and may become valueless. It is as likely that losses will be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling securities.

1.2 Suspension or Restriction of Trading

Market conditions (e.g., illiquidity) and/or the operation of the business rules (including trading and listing rules) of certain markets and exchanges (e.g., the suspension of trading in any security because of price limits or trading halts) may increase the risk of loss by making it difficult or impossible to effect transactions or liquidate/offset positions.

1.3 Commission and Other Charges

You should obtain a clear explanation of all commissions, fees and any other charges and understand that these charges may affect your net profit (if any) or increase your loss. You agree that you will be liable for these charges (as may be amended from time to time).

1.4 Transactions in Other Jurisdictions

Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to the Australian market, may expose you to additional risks. Such markets may be subjected to rules that may offer different or diminished investor protection. Before entering into such trades, you should be aware of the rules relevant to your particular transactions. Our local regulatory authority may be unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of regulatory authorities or markets in other jurisdictions where your transactions have been effected.

1.5 Currency Risks

The potential for profit or loss from transactions on foreign markets or in foreign currency-denominated securities (traded locally or in other jurisdictions) will be affected by fluctuations in foreign exchange rates.

1.6 Trading Facilities and Electronic Trading

Webull's trading facilities are supported by computer-based component systems for the order-routing, executing, matching, registration or clearing of trades. As with all facilities and computer systems, you will be exposed to risks associated with the system including the failure of hardware and software. The result of any systems failure may be that your order is either not executed according to your Instructions or is not executed at all. You should also be aware that the internet is not a completely reliable transmission medium and there may be delays in service provisions. Please refer to paragraph 6 below for further details of the potential risks of electronic trading.

2. Risk of Trading Futures and Options

The risk of loss in trading futures contracts or options is substantial. In some circumstances, you may sustain losses in excess of your initial margin funds. Placing contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" orders, will not necessarily avoid loss. Market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders. You may be called upon at short notice to deposit additional margin funds. If the required funds are not provided within the prescribed time, your position may be liquidated. You will remain liable for any resulting deficit in your Account. You should understand futures contracts and options before you trade and carefully consider whether such trading is suitable in light of your own financial position and investment objectives. If you trade options, you should inform yourself of exercise and expiration procedures and your rights and obligations upon exercise or expiry. In considering whether to trade, you should be aware of the following:

2.1 Effect of "Leverage" or "Gearing"

Transactions in futures carry a high degree of risk. The amount of initial margin is small relative to the value of the futures contract so that the transaction is highly "leveraged" or "geared". A relatively small market movement will have a proportionately larger impact on the funds you have deposited or will have to deposit; this may work against you as well as for you. You may sustain a total loss of the initial margin funds and any additional funds deposited with the firm to maintain your position. If the market moves against your position or margin levels are increased, you may be called upon to pay substantial additional funds on short notice in order to maintain your position. If you fail to comply with a request for additional funds within the specified time, your position may be liquidated at a loss and you will be liable for any resulting deficit in your account.

2.2 Variable Degree of Risk

Transactions in options carry a high degree of risk. Purchasers and sellers of options should familiarise themselves with the type of options (i.e. put or call) which they contemplate trading and the associated risks. You should calculate the extent to which the value of the options would have to increase for your position to become profitable, taking into account the premium paid and all transaction costs. The purchaser of options may offset its position by trading in the market or exercise the options or allow the options to expire. The exercise of an option results either in a cash settlement or in the purchaser acquiring or delivering the underlying interest. If the option is on a futures contract, the purchaser will have to acquire a position in the futures contract, with associated liabilities for margin. If the purchased options expire worthless, you will suffer a total loss of your investment which will consist of the option premium paid plus transaction costs. If you are contemplating purchasing deep-out-of-the-money options, you should be aware that, ordinarily, the chance of such options becoming profitable is remote.

Selling (“writing” or “granting”) an option generally entails considerably greater risk than purchasing options. Although the premium received by the seller is fixed, the seller may sustain a loss well in excess of the amount of premium received. The seller will be liable to deposit additional margin to maintain the position if the market moves unfavourably. The seller will also be exposed to the risk of the purchaser exercising the option and the seller will be obligated to either settle the option in cash or to acquire or deliver the underlying interest. If the option is on a futures contract, the seller will acquire a position in the futures contract with associated liabilities for margin. If the option is “covered” by the seller holding a corresponding position in the underlying futures contract or another option, the risk may be reduced. If the option is not covered, the risk of loss can be unlimited.

Certain exchanges in some jurisdictions permit deferred payment of the option premium, limiting the liability of the purchaser to margin payments not exceeding the amount of the premium. The purchaser is still subject to the risk of losing the premium and transaction costs. When the option is exercised or expires, the purchaser is responsible for any unpaid premium outstanding at that time.

2.3 Terms and Conditions of Contracts

You should understand the terms and conditions of the specific futures contract or option which you are trading and the associated obligations (e.g. the circumstances under which you may become obligated to make or take delivery of the underlying interest of a futures contract in respect of options, expiration dates and restrictions on the time for exercise). Under certain circumstances, the specifications of outstanding contracts (including the exercise price of an option) may be modified by the exchange or clearing house to reflect changes in the underlying interest.

2.4. Suspension or Restriction of Trading and Pricing Relationships

Market conditions (e.g. illiquidity) or the operation of the rules of certain markets. (e.g. the suspension of trading in any contract or contract month because of price limits or “circuit breakers”) may increase the risk of loss by making it difficult or impossible to effect transactions or liquidate/offset positions. If you have sold options, this may increase the risk of loss.

Further, normal pricing relationships between the underlying interest and the futures contract, and the underlying interest and the option may not exist. This can occur when, e.g., the futures contract underlying the option is subject to price limits while the option is not. The absence of an underlying reference price may make it difficult to judge “fair” value.

3. Risk of Client Assets Received or Held Outside Australia

Client assets received or held by the licensed or registered person outside Australia are subject to the Applicable Laws and Regulations of the relevant overseas jurisdiction which may be different from Australian legislation made thereunder. Consequently, such client assets may not enjoy the same protection as that conferred on client assets received or held in Australia.

4. Risk of Providing an Authority to Hold Mail or to Direct Mail to Third Parties

If you provide us with an authority to hold mail or to direct mail to third parties, it is important for you to promptly collect in person all contract notes and statements of your Account and review them in detail to ensure that any anomalies or mistakes can be detected in a timely fashion.

We will confirm with you at least on an annual basis whether you wish to revoke the authority. For the avoidance of doubt, it will be acceptable for us to send a notification to you before the expiry date of the authority and inform you that it is automatically renewed unless you specifically revoke it in writing before the expiry date.

5. Risk of Margin Trading

The risk of loss in financing a transaction by deposit of collateral is significant. You may sustain losses in excess of your cash and any other assets deposited as collateral with the licensed or registered person. Market conditions may make it impossible to execute contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" orders. You may be called upon at short notice to make additional margin deposits or interest payments. If the required margin deposits or interest payments are not made within the prescribed time, your collateral may be liquidated without your consent. Moreover, you will remain liable for any resulting deficit in your Account and interest charged on your Account. You should therefore carefully consider whether such a financing arrangement is suitable in light of your own financial position and investment objectives.

6. Risk of Electronic Trading

Trading on an electronic trading system may differ from trading on other electronic trading systems. If you undertake transactions on an electronic trading system, you will be exposed to risks associated with the system including the failure of hardware and/or software. The result of any system failure may be that your order is either not executed according to your Instructions or is not executed at all. In particular, your attention is drawn to the following:

- (a) the internet is, and any other Electronic Media may also be, an inherently unreliable medium of data transmission and communication and that, accordingly, there are risks in conducting Transactions in the Account through the Electronic Trading Service or otherwise communication through the internet or any other Electronic Media;

- (b) access to the website operated by Webull or the Electronic Trading Service may at any time and from time to time be limited, delayed or unavailable, including during periods of peak demand, market volatility, systemic failures (including hardware and software failures), systems upgrades or maintenance or for other reasons;
- (c) Instructions given or Transactions conducted through the internet or other Electronic Media may be subject to interruption, transmission blackout, delayed transmission, or incorrect data transmission due to, where applicable, unpredictable traffic congestion, the public nature of the media used or other reasons;
- (d) Instructions given through the internet or other Electronic Media may not be executed or may be delayed so that they are executed at prices different from those prevailing at the time the Instructions were given;
- (e) communications and Personal Information may be accessed by unauthorized third parties;
- (f) Instructions given through the internet or other Electronic Media may be executed without being subject to human review; and
- (g) the status of your Instructions or orders for Transactions in the Account or execution thereof and your cash position, securities position or other details relating to your Account as reflected in any acknowledgement, confirmation or other record posted on Webull's website may not be updated immediately. Such acknowledgement, confirmation or other record will only reflect Transactions in your Account conducted through the Electronic Trading Service and that, in the case of doubt, you should contact Webull to ascertain the status of your other Transactions in your Account or other details relating to your Account.

7. Risk of Listed Structured Products

This paragraph is as a general guide to highlight some basic risks associated and does not mean to cover all of the risks and other significant aspects of trading in structured products (such as Futures and Options, Derivative Warrants, Callable Bull/Bear Contracts (CBBC), Exchange Traded Funds (ETF), and Rights etc.). In consideration of the risks associated, you (being the client and Investor of structured products) should undertake such transactions only if you understand the nature of the structure products into which you are entering and the extent of your exposure to risk. Trading in structured products is not suitable for many members of the public. You should carefully consider whether trading is appropriate for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial resources, and other relevant circumstances.

7.1. General

- (a) Issuer default risk
In the event that a structured product issuer becomes insolvent and defaults on their listed securities, you will be considered as unsecured creditors and will have no preferential claims to any assets held by the issuer. You should therefore pay close attention to the financial strength and credit worthiness of structured product issuers.

(b) Uncollateralised product risk

Uncollateralised structured products are not asset backed. In the event of issuer bankruptcy, you can lose your entire investment. You should read the listing documents to determine if a product is uncollateralised.

(c) Gearing risk

Derivative warrants and callable bull/bear contracts (CBBCs) are leveraged and can change in value rapidly according to the gearing ratio relative to the underlying assets. You should be aware that their value may fall to zero resulting in a total loss of the initial investment.

The level of gearing embedded in an inline warrant depends on a variety of factors including but not limited to time-to- expiry and spot price of the underlying asset compared to the lower and upper strike prices. An inline warrant will be expected to have a high effective gearing when trading price close to the lower or upper strike price, and a relatively low effective gearing in other cases. These differences in effective gearing are amplified when inline warrants are close to expiry.

(d) Expiry considerations

Structured products have an expiry date after which the issue may become worthless. You should be aware of the expiry time horizon and choose a product with an appropriate lifespan for your trading strategy.

(e) Extraordinary price movements

The price of a structured product may not match its theoretical price due to outside influences such as market supply and demand factors. As a result, actual traded prices can be higher or lower than the theoretical price.

(f) Foreign exchange risk

You are trading structured products with underlying assets not denominated in Australian dollars are also exposed to exchange rate risk. Currency rate fluctuations can adversely affect the underlying asset value, also affecting the structured product price.

(g) Liquidity risk

The Exchange requires all structured product issuers to appoint a liquidity provider for each individual issue. The role of liquidity providers is to provide two-way quotes to facilitate trading of their products. In the event that a liquidity provider defaults or ceases to fulfill its role, you may not be able to buy or sell the product until a new liquidity provider has been assigned.

7.2. Some Additional Risks Involved in Trading Derivative Warrants

(a) Time decay risk

All things being equal, the value of a derivative warrant will decay over time as it approaches its expiry date. Derivative warrants should therefore not be viewed as long term investments.

(b) Volatility risk

Prices of derivative warrants can increase or decrease in line with the implied volatility of underlying asset price. You should be aware of the underlying asset volatility.

7.3. Risks of Exchange Traded Products

(a) Market risk

The value of an Exchange Traded Product (ETP) represents the value of its underlying assets including but not limited to stocks, bonds, or commodities. ETP issuers may use different strategies to construct the portfolios, but in general they do not have the discretion to take defensive positions in declining markets. You must be prepared to bear the risk of loss and volatility associated with the underlying index/assets.

(b) Tracking error

Tracking error refers to the disparity in performance between an ETP and its underlying index/assets. For ETPs adopting a passive strategy, tracking error can arise due to factors such as the impact of transaction fees and expenses incurred to the ETP, changes in composition of the underlying index/assets, and the ETP issuer's replication strategy. (The common replication strategies include full replication/representative sampling and synthetic replication which are discussed in more detail below.) For ETPs adopting an active strategy, tracking error will normally higher due to the ETP issuer's objective to outperform its underlying index/assets. You should be aware of this active risk when considering investing in actively managed ETPs.

(c) Trading at premium or discount

An ETP may be traded at a premium or discount to its Net Asset Value (NAV). This price discrepancy is caused by supply and demand factors and may be particularly likely to emerge during periods of high market volatility and uncertainty. This phenomenon may also be observed for ETPs tracking specific markets or sectors that are subject to direct investment restrictions.

(d) Foreign exchange risk

You are trading ETPs with underlying assets not denominated in Australian dollars are also exposed to exchange rate risk. Currency rate fluctuations can adversely affect the underlying asset value, also affecting the ETP price.

(e) Liquidity risk

Market Makers provide liquidity to facilitate trading in ETPs. Although most ETPs are supported by one or more market makers, there is no assurance that active trading will be maintained. In the event that the market makers default or cease to fulfill their role, you may not be able to buy or sell the product.

(f) Delayed Settlement Risk

Market makers may short sell units of an ETP listed on HKEX in market making trades and may apply for one extra day for settlement to cover such short positions. Therefore, the affected buyer(s) would receive the ETP units one day later than normal settlement date without prior notice, but the affected buyer(s) retain the right to sell the bought shares before the completion of settlement. Furthermore, a participating dealer may have their redemption settlement process affected by the delayed settlement.

7.4. Counterparty risk involved in ETPs with different replication strategies

(a) Full replication and representative sampling strategies

An ETP using a full replication strategy generally aims to invest in all constituent stocks/assets in the same weightings as its benchmark. ETPs adopting a representative sampling strategy will invest in some, but not all of the relevant constituent stocks/assets. For ETPs that invest directly in the underlying assets rather than through synthetic instruments issued by third parties, counterparty risk tends to be less of concern.

(b) Synthetic replication strategies

ETPs utilising a synthetic replication strategy use swaps or other derivative instruments to gain exposure to a benchmark. Currently, synthetic replication ETPs can be further categorized into two forms:

(i) Swap-based ETPs

Total return swaps allow ETP issuers to replicate the benchmark performance of ETPs without purchasing the underlying assets. Swap-based ETPs are exposed to counterparty risk of the swap dealers and may suffer losses if such dealers default or fail to honour their contractual commitments.

(ii) Derivative embedded ETPs

ETP issuers may also use other derivative instruments to synthetically replicate the economic benefit of the relevant benchmark. The derivative instruments may be issued by one or multiple issuers. Derivative embedded ETPs are subject to counterparty risk of the derivative instruments' issuers and may suffer losses if such issuers default or fail to honour their contractual commitments.

Even where collateral is obtained by an ETP, it is subject to the collateral provider fulfilling its obligations. There is a further risk that when the right against the collateral is exercised, the market value of the collateral could be substantially less than the amount secured resulting in significant loss to the ETP. It is important that you understand and critically assess the implications arising due to different ETP structures and characteristics.

8. Risks of Bonds

- 8.1. The price of bonds can and does fluctuate, sometimes rapidly and significantly. The price of a bond may move up or down and may become valueless. It is as likely that losses will be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling of bonds. Also, there may be risks in leaving bonds in our safekeeping. The holder of bonds bears the credit risk of the issuer and/or guarantor (if applicable) and has no recourse to us unless we are the issuer or guarantor (if applicable).

- 8.2. Not all bonds provide for repayment of 100% of the face value of the bond. The return on a bond depends on the terms of issue and reference should be made to the corresponding prospectus or term sheet for detail and there may be circumstances that the money and/or value of shares that you receive at maturity may be substantially less than the value of your original investment. If there is any fractional share(s) or other Securities or underlying assets deliverables on maturity, it/they may not be physically delivered.
- 8.3 In situations where any bond is a product combining note with financial or other derivatives, such as options, its return may be linked to the performance of other financial instruments, such as underlying stocks, commodities, currencies, companies, and indices. Unless such bond is listed on Exchange or other regulated stock exchanges, you will only be able to sell such bond in the over-the-counter market, if at all. The prices of bonds in secondary markets are affected by a wide range of factors, including without limitation, the performance of the underlying stocks, commodities currencies, companies, indices, the market view of the credit quality of the reference company, and interest rates. You must be aware that secondary markets do not always exist and even where a secondary market exists, it may not be liquid. You must accept any associated liquidity risk.
- 8.4. Transactions in options carry a high degree of risk (including products that have options embedded in them such as bonds). Purchasers and sellers of options should familiarize themselves with the type of option (i.e., put or call) which they contemplate trading and the associated risks.
- 8.5. The profit or loss in transactions in foreign currency-denominated contracts (whether they are traded in your own or another jurisdiction) will be affected by fluctuations in currency exchange rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to another currency.

9. Further Confirmations in Relation to Trading of Exchange Derivative Products

You hereby certify that neither you nor any being the beneficial owner (each of them being the "Holder of the Products") of the Exchange Derivative Products or other products (including but not limited to equity linked notes) (the "Products") purchased by you from us and/or transacted through or in the Account is a person who is subject to any other limitations in respect of trading in the Products. You shall notify us in writing forthwith upon any changes in any such status of the Holder of the Products. We are entitled to rely fully on any of your certification and confirmation contained for all purposes unless we receive notice in writing of any changes thereof.

10. Risk of Over-The-Counter Transactions

You should only undertake Over-The-Counter ("OTC") trading if you understand the nature of such trading and such trading facilities and the extent of your exposure to risks. If in doubt, you should seek independent professional advice.

OTC transactions are subject to risk, including counterparty risk, including but not limited to the risk that the particular securities fail to subsequently be listed on the Exchange, lower liquidity, and higher volatility. Settlement of the relevant transactions is not guaranteed, and you will be responsible for any losses and/or expenses resulting from your and/or your counterparty's settlement failures.

The prices of Securities traded on OTC market may differ significantly from their opening or traded prices transacted during the regular market hours upon the listing of the Securities on the Exchange. The prices displayed on the OTC market may not reflect the prices in other concurrently operating automated trading systems dealing in the same Securities.

OTC transactions may be cancelled and void if that particular Securities subsequently fails to list on the Exchange. The clients order may only be partially executed, or not at all, as a result of the lower liquidity in OTC market as compared to regular market hours of the Exchange. There may also be greater volatility in OTC market than in regular market hours of the Exchange. The lower liquidity and higher volatility in OTC market may then result in wider than normal spreads for a particular type of Securities.

News announcements made by the issuers may affect the price of their Securities after regular market hours. Similarly, important financial information is often announced outside regular market hours. In OTC market, these announcements may occur during trading and may cause an exaggerated and unsustainable effect on the price of a particular type of Securities.

In particular, the OTC market is not regulated by the Exchange and the relevant transaction will not be covered by the Investor Compensation Fund until it is properly recorded on the trading system of the Exchange upon the listing of the Securities on the Exchange.

11. Risk relating to Trading in U.S. Exchange-listed or Over the counter ("OTC") Securities, or U.S. Exchange-listed Derivatives

You should understand the U.S. rules applicable to trades in securities or security-like instrument in markets governed by U.S. law before undertaking any such trading. U.S. law could apply to trading in U.S. markets irrespective of the law applicable in your home jurisdiction.

Many (but by no means all) stocks, bonds and options are listed and traded on U.S. stock exchanges. Nasdaq, which used to be an OTC market among dealers, has now also become a U.S. exchange. For exchange-listed stocks, bonds and options, each exchange promulgates rules that supplement the rules of the U.S. Securities & Exchange Commission ("SEC") for the protection of individuals and institutions trading in the securities listed on the exchange.

OTC trading among dealers can continue in exchange-listed instruments and in instruments that are not exchange-listed at all. For securities that are not listed on any exchanges, trading can continue through the OTC bulletin board or through the inter-dealer "pink sheets" that carries representative (not actual) dealer quotes. These facilities are outside of Nasdaq.

Options on securities are subject to SEC rules and the rules of any securities exchange on which the options are listed. Options on futures contracts on commodities like wheat or gold are governed by rules of the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission ("CFTC"). There are also commercial options, like options on real estate, that are governed neither by SEC nor CFTC rules.

Whether you are intending to trade in U.S. exchange-listed securities, OTC securities, you should understand the particular rules that govern the market in which you are intending trade. An investment in any of these instruments tends to increase the risk.

Market makers of OTC bulletin board are unable to use electronic means to interact with other dealers to execute trades. They must manually interact with the market, i.e., using standard phone lines to communicate with other dealers to execute trades. This may cause delays in the time it takes to interact with the marketplace. This, if coupled with increase in trade volume, may lead to wide price fluctuation in OTC bulletin board securities as well as lengthy delays in execution time. You should exercise extreme caution when placing market orders and fully understand the risks associated with trading in OTC bulletin board. Market data such as quotes, volume and market size may or may not be as up to date as expected with Nasdaq or listed securities.

As there may be far fewer market makers participating in OTC securities markets, the liquidity in that securities may be significantly less than those in listed markets. As such, you may receive a partial execution, or the order may not be executed at all. Additionally, the price received on a market order may be significantly different from the price quoted at the time of order entry. When fewer shares of a given securities are being traded, larger spreads between bid and ask prices and volatile swings in price may result. In some cases, the liquidation of a position in an OTC security may not be possible within a reasonable period of time. Issuers of OTC securities have no duty to provide any information to investors, maintain registration with the SEC or provide regular reports to investors.

12. Risk Disclosure of Extended-hours and Overnight-hours Trading in U.S. Market

You should consider the following points before engaging in Extended-hours and overnight-hours trading in U.S. securities markets.

Extended-hours trading

Extended hours Trading means trading between 4:00 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. EST (US Time), and 4:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. EST (US Time).

Overnight-hours Trading

Overnight-hours Trading means 8 p.m. to 4:00 a.m. EST (US Time).

Note: - EST is Eastern Standard Time (UTC-05:00) which is 14-16 hours difference to Australia depending on your state and the time of the year (e.g. Daylight Saving).

- 12.1 Risk of Lower Liquidity: Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and sell securities. Generally, the more orders that are available in a market, the greater the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity it is easier for investors to buy or sell securities, and as a result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities purchased or sold. There may be lower liquidity in Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading as compared to regular trading hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all.
- 12.2 Risk of Higher Volatility. Volatility refers to the changes in price that securities undergo when trading. Generally, the higher the volatility of a security, the greater its price swings. There may be greater volatility in Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading than during regular trading hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all, or you may receive an inferior price when engaging in Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading than you would during regular trading hours.
- 12.3 Risk of Changing Prices. The prices of securities traded in Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading may not reflect the prices either at the end of regular trading hours, or upon the opening the next morning. As a result, you may receive an inferior price when engaging in Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading than you would during the regular trading hours.
- 12.4 Risk of Unlinked Markets. Depending on the Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading system or the time of day, the prices displayed on a particular Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading system may not reflect the prices in other concurrently operating Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading systems dealing in the same securities. Accordingly, you may receive an inferior price in one Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading system than you would in another Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading system.

- 12.5 Risk of News Announcements. Normally, issuers make news announcements that may affect the price of their securities after regular trading hours. Similarly, important financial information is frequently announced outside of regular trading hours. In Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading, these announcements may occur during the trading, and if combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may cause an exaggerated and unsustainable effect on the price of a security.
- 12.6 Risk of Wider Spreads. The spread refers to the difference in price and between what you can buy securities for and what you can sell it for. Lower liquidity and higher volatility in Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading may result in wider than normal spreads for a particular security.
- 12.7 Risk of Lack of Calculation or Dissemination of Underlying Index Value or Intraday Indicative Value ("IIV") and Lack of Regular Trading in Securities Underlying Indexes. For certain products, an updated underlying index or portfolio value or IIV will not be calculated or publicly disseminated during Extended-hours and Overnight-hours. Since the underlying index or portfolio value and IIV are not calculated or widely disseminated during Extended-hours and Overnight-hours, an investor who is unable to calculate implied values for certain products during Extended-hours and Overnight-hours may be at a disadvantage to market professionals.
- 12.8 Additionally, securities underlying the indexes or portfolios will not be regularly trading as they are during regular trading hours or may not be trading at all. This may cause prices during Extended hours and Overnight hours not reflecting the prices of those securities when they open for trading.
- 12.9 Securities affected by a corporate action event may not be allowed to trade during the Extended hours and Overnight hours at Webull's discretion unless all relevant orders and positions can be correctly handled.

Our Extended-hours and Overnight-hours Trading rules are subject to change without prior notice. By participating in Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading, you are deemed to understand and agree to the unique risks of investing during extended-hours and overnight-hours trading sessions and agree to abide by these extended-hours and overnight-hours trading rules. To review any rule changes, please refer to these Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading rules often. Webull accounts are self-directed, and you are solely responsible for implementing or adopting any investment decision or trading strategy. Extended-hours and Overnight-hours trading may not be appropriate for every investor.

13. Disclosure of Payment for Order flow and Order Routing Information

It is a requirement of the SEC and Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") in the U.S. that all brokers-dealers inform their clients of payment for order flow practices when a new account is opened and on an annual basis thereafter and on confirmations.

Consistent with the overriding principle of best execution and subject to applicable regulatory requirements, our U.S. broker(s) may route orders to primary exchanges and other market centres, including regional securities exchanges, dealers that make markets over the counter, and Electronic Communication Networks (ECNs). These broker-dealers and market centres may include dealers who make markets in these securities. Our U.S. broker(s) may receive any compensation for routing equity orders to dealers. In exchange for routing your equity orders to certain market centres, our U.S. broker(s) may receive monetary rebates per executed share for equity orders that add liquidity to its book and/or rebates for aggregate exchange fees. The rebates are considered payment for order flow even though it may not necessarily offset our aggregate payments for removing liquidity.

Order routing decisions are based on a number of factors including the size of the order, the opportunity for price improvement and the quality of order executions. However, our U.S. broker(s) vest regularly reviews routing decisions, market centres and test trade executions to ensure that your orders meet its duty of best execution.

Price improvement occurs when an order is executed at a price more favourable than the displayed national best bid and offer. You agree that our U.S. broker(s) may use discretion in selecting a particular exchange or market centre in which to route your order.

The source and amount of any compensation received in connection with a transaction and any additional information concerning order flow will be disclosed as required by U.S. law. The source and amount of these payments are available on the website of our U.S. broker(s).

14. Risks of Stop Orders and Advanced Orders

Stop Orders and Advanced Orders are provided in certain markets, extra risks include:

- 14.1 Stop prices are not guaranteed execution prices. A "stop order" becomes a "market order" when the "stop price" is reached and broker-dealers are required to execute a market order fully and promptly at the current market price. Therefore, the price at which a stop order ultimately is executed may be very different from the investor's "stop price". Accordingly, while a client may receive a prompt execution of a stop order that becomes a market order, during volatile market conditions, the execution may be at a significantly different price from the stop price if the market is moving rapidly.

- 14.2 Stop orders may be triggered by a short-lived, rapid, and significant price change. Clients should be informed that, during periods of volatile market conditions, the price of a security can move significantly in a short period of time and trigger an execution of a stop order (and the security may later resume trading at its prior price level). Clients should understand that if their stop order is triggered under these circumstances, they may sell at an undesirable price even though the price of the security may stabilize during the same trading day.
- 14.3 Sell stop orders may exacerbate price declines during times of extreme volatility. The activation of sell stop orders may add downward price pressure on securities. If triggered during a precipitous price decline, a sell stop order also is more likely to result in an execution well below the stop price.
- 14.4 Placing a "limit price" on a stop order may help manage some of these risks. A stop order with a "limit price" (a "stop limit" order) becomes a "limit order" when the security reaches the "stop price." A "limit order" is an order to buy or sell securities for an amount no worse than a specific price (i.e., the "limit price"). By using a stop limit order instead of a regular stop order, the client will receive additional certainty with respect to the price the client receives for the security. However, clients should also be aware that, because brokers cannot sell for a price that is lower (or buy for a price that is higher) than the limit price selected, there is the possibility that the order will not be executed at all. Clients should be encouraged to use limit orders in cases where they prioritize achieving a desired target price more than getting an immediate execution irrespective of price.
- 14.5 Advanced Orders may have increased risks due to their reliance on trigger processing, market data, and other internal and external system factors. Due to market conditions and/or timing, advanced orders you enter, or those that are triggered just prior to or near market close may not be executed. It is possible that such order(s) will not be executed during that session, or at all if good for the day only. While a verification process is in place to avoid false triggers of orders, it is possible for an order to be triggered by an erroneous trade.
- 14.6 By using advanced orders, you agree that Webull is not responsible for losses or damages resulting from market data problems, system issues, and user misuse among other factors. Webull also does not recommend these orders as acceptable for a particular purpose or to meet a specific trading or financial need. Advanced orders can be cancelled at any time based on the above factors. Your use of advanced orders indicates your understanding and acceptance of the risks associated with these orders.

15. Additional Risks Involved in Trading Callable Bull/Bear Contracts (CBBC)

- 15.1 Mandatory call risk

In trading CBBCs, you should be aware of their intraday “knockout” or mandatory call feature. A CBBC will cease trading when the underlying asset value equals the mandatory call price/level as stated in the listing documents. You will only be entitled to the residual value of the terminated CBBC as calculated by the product issuer in accordance with the listing documents. You should also note that the residual value can be zero.

15.2 Funding costs

The issue price of a CBBC includes funding costs. Funding costs are gradually reduced over time as the CBBC moves towards expiry. The longer the duration of the CBBC, the higher the total funding costs. In the event that a CBBC is called, you will lose the funding costs for the entire lifespan of the CBBC. The formula for calculating the funding costs is stated in the listing documents.

16. Additional Risks Involved in Trading Inline Warrants

16.1 Pricing structure

The pricing structure of the inline warrants requires you to assess accurately the value of the inline warrants in relation to the expected probability of the valuation of underlying asset falling within the range between the upper strike price and the lower strike price (both inclusive). It may be difficult for you to properly value and/or to use as a hedging tool.

16.2 Maximum potential payoff is capped.

If the valuation of underlying asset falls within or at the price range between the lower strike price and the upper strike price (both inclusive), you will only receive a maximum payoff of HK$1 per inline warrant at expiry. Therefore, the potential payoff is capped.

16.3 Cancellation of trade above HK$1 for trades on HKEX.

Due to the pre-determined fixed maximum payment at expiry of HK$1, an inline warrant should not be traded above HK$1. Any trades executed at the price above HK$1 shall not be recognized and will be cancelled by the Exchange.

17. Risk Disclosure Statement for Renminbi Products

Renminbi products involve specific risks. You should consider the following factors, among others, in evaluating the merits and suitability of this investment. The value of Renminbi products may fall as well as rise and you may not get back the amount originally invested. Different Renminbi products are subject to different risks. You should read the relevant terms and conditions and risk disclosure statement before making any investment decision. The following specific risks should be carefully considered by you, but the list does not purport to be exhaustive.

17.1 Renminbi Currency Risk

For Renminbi products which are not denominated in Renminbi or with underlying investments which are not Renminbi denominated, such products will be subject to multiple currency conversion costs involved in making investments and liquidating investments, as well as the Renminbi exchange rate fluctuations and bid/offer spreads when assets are sold to meet redemption requests and other capital requirements (e.g., settling operation expenses).

17.2 Currency Exchange Risks

Renminbi products are subject to exchange rate fluctuations which may provide both opportunities and risks. If you choose to convert the Renminbi to other currencies at an exchange rate that is less favourable than that in which made the original conversion to Renminbi, you may suffer loss in principal.

17.3 Interest Rate Risks

China has gradually liberalized the regulation of interest rates in recent years. Further liberalization may increase interest rate volatility. For Renminbi products which are, or may invest in Renminbi debt instruments, such instruments are susceptible to interest rate fluctuations, which may adversely affect the return and performance of the Renminbi products.

17.4 Limited Availability of Underlying Investments Denominated in Renminbi

For Renminbi products that do not have access to invest directly in Mainland China, their available choice of underlying investments denominated in Renminbi outside Mainland China may be very limited. Such limitation may adversely affect the return and performance of the Renminbi products.

17.5 No Guaranteed Projected Returns

For some Renminbi investment products, their return may not be guaranteed or may only be partly guaranteed. You should read carefully the statement of illustrative return attached to such products and in particular, the assumptions on which the illustrations are based, including, for example, any future bonus or dividend declaration.

17.6 Long Term Commitment

For Renminbi products which involve a long period of investment, if you redeem the investment before the maturity date or during the lock up period (if applicable), you may incur a significant loss of principal where the proceeds may be substantially lower than the invested amount. You may also suffer from early surrender withdrawal fees and charges as well as the loss of returns (where applicable) as a result of redemption before the maturity date or during lock up period.

17.7 Issuer Risk / Counterparty Risk

Renminbi products are subject to the credit and insolvency risks of their issuers. Prospective investor should consider carefully the credit worthiness of the issuers before investing. Renminbi product may invest in derivative instruments, counterparty risk may also arise as the default by the derivative issuers may adversely affect the performance of the Renminbi products and result in substantial losses.

17.8 Liquidity Risks

Renminbi may be less liquid compared to other currencies. Renminbi products may not be regularly traded or have an active secondary market. You should be aware that payments and redemptions of Renminbi products may not always be made within the expected timescales or may have to sell at a deep discount to its value.

17.9 Possibility of not Receiving Renminbi upon Redemption

For Renminbi products with a significant portion of non-Renminbi denominated underlying investments, there is a possibility of not receiving the full amount in Renminbi upon redemption. This may be the case if the issuer is not able to obtain sufficient amount of Renminbi in a timely manner due to the exchange controls and restrictions applicable to the currency.

18.5 Disclosure Obligations

You shall comply with the 5% shareholding disclosure requirement applicable to persons who invest in A-shares under applicable laws of Mainland China.

18.6 Risks associated with the Circuit Breaker mechanism.

The lifting of a circuit breaker during a continuous auction session of any China Connect Market trading day may result in trades being executed through call auction. Unless otherwise determined by the HKEX, where the circuit breaker provisions allow orders in respect of China Connect Securities to be cancelled requests through the stock connect during the period when a circuit breaker is in effect. No stock connect order is regarded as cancelled unless and until a cancellation confirmation has been issued by the relevant China Connect Market system.

The implementation of the circuit breaker mechanism has been suspended since 8 January 2016. You should take note of any further developments. Details of the circuit breaker mechanism may be found on Shanghai Stock Exchanges and Shenzhen Stock Exchanges websites.

18.7 Risk of China Clear Default

China Clear has established a risk management framework and measures that are approved and supervised by the CSRC. Pursuant to the General Rules of Central Clearing and Settlement System ("CCASS"), if China Clear (as the host central counterparty) defaults, Hong Kong Securities Clearing Company ("HKSCC") may (but shall have no obligation to) take any legal action or court proceeding to seek recovery of the outstanding China Connect Securities and monies from China Clear through available legal channels and through China Clear' s liquidation process, if applicable. HKSCC will in turn distribute the China Connect Securities and/or monies recovered to clearing participants on a pro rata basis as prescribed by the relevant China Connect authorities. We in turn will be distributing China Connect Securities and/or monies to the extent recovered directly or indirectly from HKSCC. Although the likelihood of a default by China Clear is considered to be remote, you should be aware of this arrangement and of this potential exposure before engaging in Northbound trading.

18.8 Risk of HKSCC Default

Our provision of services pursuant to this Client Agreement also depends upon the performance by HKSCC of its obligations. Any action or inaction of the HKSCC or a failure or delay by the HKSCC in the performance of its obligations may result in a failure of settlement of China Connect Securities and/or monies in connection with them and you may suffer losses as a result. Neither we nor any Related Persons shall have any responsibility or liability for any such losses.

18.9 General market risks associated with investing in China Connect Securities

Investing in China Connect Securities involves special considerations and risks, including without limitation greater price volatility, Renminbi exchange rate fluctuations etc.

18.10 Risks of settlement and trading arrangements

China Connect Market will open on days when both the Mainland and Hong Kong stock markets are open for trading, and banking services in Mainland and Hong Kong are available on the corresponding settlement day. Northbound China Connect Securities will be settled on T Day and money will be settled on T+1 day. You shall note the settlement day of China Connect Securities. Given the differences in public holidays and working days between Mainland and Hong Kong, it is possible that the China Connect Market is closed, and you cannot trade in A-shares while the A-shares market is open for trading. You shall note the business days of China Connect Market. You should consider if you can take on the risk of price fluctuations in the A-shares market during the time when China Connect Market is closed. In addition, there is difference in trading hours between the Mainland and Hong Kong stock markets. Trading hours for A-shares under Shanghai Connect and Shenzhen Connect is different from Hong Kong and you shall be aware of such difference.

All trading must be conducted on China Connect Market system (i.e. no over the counter or manual trades are allowed). Under the following situations, you cannot buy shares, but can only sell shares on hand through trading system.

- (a) shares removed from the list of eligible stocks under China Connect will only be allowed for selling but restricted from further buying. You shall be aware of the change of the list of eligible A-shares.
- (b) If the daily Northbound quota of China Connect Securities is used up, (i.e. the daily quota balance of China Connect Securities drops to zero or the daily quota is exceeded during a continuous auction session (for closing call auction for Shenzhen Stock Exchange), no further buy orders will be accepted for the remainder of the day while sell orders will still be accepted). Buying services will be resumed on the next trading day. Buy orders already accepted will not be affected by the daily quota being used up and will remain on the order book of China Connect Market Operator unless otherwise cancelled by the relevant brokers.

- (c) If the used up of daily Northbound quota happens during the opening call auction session, new buy orders will be rejected. However, as order cancellation is common during opening call auction, the daily Northbound trading quota balance may resume to a positive level before the end of the opening call auction. When that happens, the HKEX will again accept Northbound buy orders.

19. Risk of trading Growth Enterprise Market stocks

Growth Enterprise Market (“GEM”) stocks involve a high investment risk. In particular, companies may list on GEM with neither a track record of profitability nor any obligation to forecast future profitability. GEM stocks may be very volatile and illiquid. You should make the decision to invest only after due and careful consideration. The greater risk profile and other characteristics of GEM mean that it is a market more suited to professional and other sophisticated investors. Current information on GEM stocks may only be found on the internet website operated by HKEX. GEM Companies are usually not required to issue paid announcements in gazetted newspapers. You should seek independent professional advice if you are uncertain of or have not understood any aspect of this risk disclosure statement or the nature and risks involved in trading of GEM stocks.

20. Risks of short selling

20.1 Potentially Unlimited Loss

The maximum loss of an investor who has bought a stock is their initial outlay if that stock moves to zero. On the contrary, a short seller can lose more than their initial investment. Given that there is no ceiling theoretically as to how much the price of a stock may rise, this means that the loss could be unlimited when it comes to closing a position.

20.2 Stock Borrowing Costs

Investors must account for the interest charged on the borrowed stocks until they are returned. The daily short interest rate can fluctuate substantially as a result of high short interest, limited float or any other reasons which could not be pre-determined. The aggregate interest amount can be significant and could potentially lead to a loss in short positions.

20.3 Recall and Liquidation

Borrowed stocks can be recalled by the stock lender at any time. In the event of a recall, the broker would attempt to re-borrow the stock. However, if the borrowing attempt fails, the broker will close the short position at the current market price and this could lead to an unexpected loss to the customer.

If the shorted stock rises significantly in value, the margin requirement for the position will also increase in tandem. The customer is exposed to margin call risk and liquidation will be triggered in the event of insufficient margin.

20.4 Short Squeeze

A short squeeze happens when a stock rises sharply suddenly and the short seller scrambles to purchase shares to cover his positions. A demand surge for the share can drive the price higher and causing even more short sellers to exit their positions by buying back the shares.

20.5 Corporate Actions

The short seller is responsible for the dividend distribution and other events associated with the shorted stock, such as share splits, bonus shares issues and etc, to the stock lender. Certain corporate actions may also cause the increase in short interest rate. All this will attribute to higher short selling cost.

20.6 Delisting and Suspension

When a stock is suspended or undergoing delisting process, securities lending fee will still be charged on the short position until the stock is covered back when the stock resumes trading or becomes delisted. This process can continue for a long period of time and the securities lending fee, which is computed based on the last traded price or delisting price, may be costly.

21. Risk of unlisted Collective Investment Schemes

A Collective Investment Scheme ("CIS") has the same meaning as defined in Section 2 of the SFA. You should only undertake trading in an unlisted CIS if you understand the nature of such trading, associated trading facilities and dealing procedures of the unlisted CIS you are interested in, and the extent of your exposure to the various risks.

Investment in unlisted CIS will expose you to different risks depending on the form, structure and features of the unlisted CIS, its manager(s), and its investment strategy. When you invest in an unlisted CIS, you will not have control over the assets of the unlisted CIS, but the assets will instead be managed by the manager(s). Income and profits (or losses) are pooled before being distributed to investors.

21.1 Investment Risk

Investment in unlisted CIS involve risks. The prices of unlisted CIS fluctuate, sometimes rapidly and significantly. The price of unlisted CIS may move up or down and may become worthless. It is likely that losses will be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling unlisted CIS.

21.2 Valuation Risk

Valuation of unlisted CIS investments may involve uncertainties and judgemental determinations. If such valuations turn out to be incorrect, this may affect the calculation of the net asset value of the unlisted CIS.

21.3 Risk of Underlying Assets

An unlisted CIS is exposed to the movement in price of the assets underlying the unlisted CIS. If the value of the underlying assets depreciates, it is very likely that the value of a unit in the unlisted CIS will also depreciate.

21.4 Concentration Risk

Investing in an unlisted CIS concentrated on only one or a few market sectors, asset classes or markets may involve greater concentration risk than investing in an unlisted CIS that have greater diversification.

21.5 Leverage Risk

Some unlisted CIS may utilize financial instruments and techniques with embedded leverage. As a result, small movement in the market or in the level or price of any underlying investment in the unlisted CIS will have a magnified effect on value of the unlisted CIS and, consequently, on the returns on your investment, which may be beneficial or detrimental.

21.6 Derivatives Products Risk

(a) Some unlisted CIS may utilise derivatives such as warrants, futures, options and forward contracts for hedging, efficient portfolio management and investment purposes. However, it can also be detrimental to an unlisted CIS' performance if the unlisted CIS manager's prediction is incorrect. In adverse situation, the use of derivatives may become ineffective, and the unlisted CIS may suffer significant losses.

- (b) The unlisted CIS may use derivatives extensively for investment purposes and may therefore suffer significant loss.

21.7 Complex Products Risk

- (a) Some unlisted CIS may be difficult to value accurately because there are no publicly available prices. It is only possible to obtain an accurate price when the unlisted CIS is sold, and that price may differ from previously reported values.
- (b) Some unlisted CIS will only permit subscriptions and redemptions on specified dealing days. Dealing days may be restricted to weekly or monthly trading or for even longer period. In some cases, unlisted CIS will not permit any redemptions and you must hold the unlisted CIS for a fixed period. Without daily subscriptions and redemptions, it may take longer before you are able to convert your unlisted CIS into cash.

21.8 Risk with Payment of Dividends out of Capital

Some unlisted CIS may distribute dividends to be paid out of capital of the unlisted CIS. A high distribution yield for an unlisted CIS may not necessarily lead to positive or high returns on the total investment since it will decrease the available capital of the unlisted CIS for investment in the future and may therefore reduce the capital growth. Any distributions of dividends out of the capital may result in an immediate reduction of the Unlisted CIS' net asset value per unit.

21.9 Emerging Market Risk

Some Unlisted CIS' may invest in markets which:

- (a) may be subject to a higher than usual risk of political or economic instability;
- (b) may not be subject to accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards and practices comparable to those applicable in more advanced countries, and/or
- (c) may have less government supervision, legal regulation and less-well defined tax laws and procedures than in countries with more advanced securities markets.

The capital of and income of such Unlisted CIS' may be affected detrimentally by fluctuations in currency rates, exchange control and fiscal regulations. As a result, such Unlisted CIS' may be subject to substantial price volatility.

21.10 Risks specific to unlisted CIS with bonds as underlying.

- (a) Credit and Default Risk: If the issuer of any underlying bonds default, the unlisted CIS may suffer losses.
- (b) Interest Rate Risk: In general, the price of debt securities rises when interest rate falls, whilst their prices fall when interest rate rises.
- (c) Risk for High Yield Bond Unlisted CIS' : Such unlisted CIS' will invest in non-investment grade bonds which are also referred to as high-yield or junk bonds. Such non-investment grade bonds typically offer a higher yield than investment-grade bonds, but the higher yield comes with increased risk. Specifically, the risk that the bond' s issuer may default.

21.11 Risk specific to unlisted CIS with equities as underlying.

- (a) An unlisted CIS which invests in equity securities is subject to general market risks, whose value may fluctuate due to various factors, such as changes in investment sentiment, political and economic conditions, and issuer-specific factors.
- (b) Small-capitalisation / mid-capitalisation companies' stocks may have lower liquidity and their prices are generally more volatile to adverse economic developments than companies with large capitalisation.
- (c) High market volatility in certain markets may also result in significant fluctuations in the prices of securities traded on such markets and thereby adversely affect the value of the unlisted CIS.
